As one of the founding partners of M.I.S. Corporation John helped create an organization focused on solving business problems through the strategic implementation of technology and systems. Since the inception of M.I.S. Corporation in 1991, John has lead successful projects serving non-profit organizations, governmental agencies and districts, Fortune 500 public corporations and privately held, owner operated businesses.

Over the course of 23 years in Business and Information Technology John has developed a keen ability to help you and your organization understand the promises and limits of technology and ensure that there will be a positive return on your investment. In his tenure at MIS, John has designed, implemented and managed the full development lifecycle for applications encompassing a wide array of solutions and technologies. The complexity and scope of these applications cover the spectrum from simple transaction tracking systems serving a single, off-site department to a financial data warehouse utilized in the strategic planning and budgeting operations of a $5B company.

John is a staunch proponent of life-long-learning and returned to university in 2002 as a candidate for a Masters of Business Administration Degree with the Olin School of Business at Washington University in St. Louis. Two years later John graduated the Executive MBA program with honors and now serves both on the Alumni Board and as the Chair of the Education Committee. John is also a member of the Association for Computing Machinery, a Microsoft Certified Professional and a member of Toastmasters International.

John and his wife Lucy spend most of their downtime chasing their four children: Seamus, Jeremy, Emma and Jack. Shared hobbies include travel, camping, and hiking, photography, entertaining, cooking and eating!
